Scheuring Speed Sports Rocks The Box With Five Podiums At Grand Finale

Aurora, Minn. (March 22, 2016) Lincoln Lemieux turned in the strongest performance of his young career with three podium finishes to close out the AMSOIL Championship Snocross season in Lake Geneva, Wisconsin.

Lemieux was at the front of the field all weekend, posting three top three results in qualifying to go along with a second, third and second in the main events. On Friday, Lemieux just missed winning his first Pro Open final as he finished on the bumper of first-time winner Petter Narsa in one of the most exciting main events in recent ISOC history, with the top four racers crossing the line just five seconds apart.

Tim Tremblay was on track to have another great weekend with a collection of his own top three finishes in qualifying. Unfortunately, Tremblay was caught up in crashes at the start of Friday and Sunday's main events, while running in the top three. Tim battled back each night to finish seventh, fourth and sixth to secure the runner-up spot in the season championship.

Lincoln Lemieux's weekend results propelled him into third overall, allowing the team to occupy two of the top three places in the year-end standings.

Pro Lite racer Max Taillefer, who has been fast at almost every event this season but struggled get results in the finals, put together one of his best weekends as a professional, finishing second during each day of Pro Lite racing. Taillefer ended the season in the fifth spot in his class championship.
