Scheuring speed sports takes “Dip in the Blue”

Aurora, Minn. (June 29, 2016) Pro drivers Lincoln Lemieux and Tim Tremblay along with team owner Steve Scheuring were guests of the U.S. Air Force at Lackland Air Force base in San Antonio, Texas. Along with Scheuring speed sports, Air Force partners from Nascar, Formula Drift , and ISOC were also guests.

“Dip into the Blue” is an opportunity for Air Force partners to experience the daily operations of the U.S. Air Force. Each Friday of the year between 600 and 800 new Airmen graduate in a very impressive ceremony. The Airmen have just completed seven weeks of basic training and are starting training in their career choice. SSS had the opportunity to view the ceremony and watch the latest group of recruits become Airmen in the U.S. Air Force.

SSS also had the opportunity to watch Air Force Special Forces Pararescue troops train, as well as Combat Controllers and Air Force Security Forces. It is crazy the training they go through and what they endure to make our country safe.

A tour of an Air Force C 5 completed the tour. This huge airplane weighs 350,000 pounds and takes off weighing in at 800,000 pounds. There is room inside for four full size race transporters plus a crew of eighteen.
