General Exclusions

Loading Exclusions

1. Overloading - Loading of trailer beyond the stated payload capacity can cause a variety of failures. If either axle has impacted frame and/or lost camber, or is otherwise bent, warranty is void. When a trailer has been overloaded, these failures are not the result ofany defect in manufacturing and thus are not covered under our warranty.
2. Improper Loading — Trailers should be loaded with weight centered in middle of trailer, and as evenly distributed as possible. A trailer loaded within its stated payload capacity, but with all the weight in the front 20 percent of the trailer, will not lift properly. Improper loading will void the trailer warranty.
3. Rough Handling — Even a trailer properly loaded within its stated payload capacity can suffer failures if banged through potholes, rough crossings, etc. at any appreciable rate of speed.

Other Specific Exclusions from Warranty

4. Rentals — Our warranty covers only original consumer purchaser. Any rental of trailer, whether commercial or private, will void the warranty.
5. Unauthorized Repairs -- Any repairs under warranty must be approved, in writing, by Covered Wagon Trailers. No reimbursements will be made for any repairs done without such prior written approval, whether the repairs are for something which would otherwise have been a legitimate warranty claim.
6. Unauthorized Modifications and Alterations — No modification, alteration, or attachment to frame of trailer will be made without express written consent of Covered Wagon Trailers.
7. Cosmetic Flaws -- Claims related to defacing, scratches, dents, chips or tears in any surface, or any other cosmetic flaw or shortcoming which does not affect the functionality of your trailer. Purchasers should examine trailer carefully before buying, and if appearance of trailer is not up to expectations,should select another trailer whose appearance is up to those expectations.
8. Rust and Corrosion — Our paint process is unparalleled in the cargo trailer industry. However, no paint will last forever, and when the paint is diminished or gone, rust and corrosion of the steel parts is inevitable. If you wish to keep your trailer rust-free, we recommend that, as part of routine maintenance, you examine your trailer and apply black Rust-Oleum or similar product to any place that has begun to rust. If you pull your trailer anywhere near salt water, or on roads salted or otherwise treated for de-icing purposes, you should thoroughly rinse all steel metal parts, including the undercarriage. Our warranty on paint is for (1) year; we will send aerosol paint if needed for maintenance.
9. Routine Maintenance -- Cost of routine maintenance, and any subsequent damage caused by failureto perform routine maintenance properly, is not covered under warranty.
10. Improper Hook-Up -- Damage caused by improper hitch ball or tow hookup.
11. Unsafe Tire Condition -- Damage caused by failure to maintain proper air pressure in your tires, or byfailure to replace tires when unsafe tire condition (whether by routine wear and tear, or by other damage) is, or should be, apparent.
12. Wrecked Trailers -- If your trailer is banged against anything or raked down the side by tree limbs or other objects (wrecked), including overhead objects or your vehicle bumper during sharp turns, it can knock the frame out of alignment, which can lead to deterioration of other components. This is an insurance issue, not a manufacturer's defect. Any signs that your trailer has hit, or has been hit, by anything will void the warranty.
