

Accessories and Options: The Antidote to Average

Our golf car owners include everyone from residents of gated communities to hobby farmers to businesses ... from RVers to retirees to rock stars ... from hunters to golfers to equestrians. And many of them want to customize their vehicles to reflect their personalities.

But our list of options and accessories is long, and it can be confusing. To help determine which options are right for you, ask yourself these questions:

How do You Plan to Use Your Vehicle?

If you'll use your golf car for neighborhood transportation, comfort and safety will be key considerations. You may want to add head and brake lights and other safety equipment. For added comfort and better communications with passengers, consider our Precedent® 4-Passenger Conversion Kit.

It converts a 2-passenger vehicle by adding a second forwarding-facing seat, open-air front seat and 35 inches of rear leg room to the Precedent i2 Excel.

If you use your vehicle for transportation and to haul light loads, our fold-down rear seat may be right for you. This rear-facing seat carries two passengers when folded but becomes a flat bed when unfolded. And it has a grab strap for added safety, something often missing on comparable products.

Hunters may opt for our high traction tires and gun rack that holds the barrel straight up to prevent injuries. (Many gun racks actually have the gun positioned horizontally.)

Equestrians rely on our stationary aluminum cargo box to haul hay, clean barns and move other materials. And the list of options for golfers is too long to tackle.

What's Your Style?

Want your vehicle to promote your business, highlight your alma mater or favorite team, or just reflect your personality?

No worries. We offer a variety of seat covers available with custom embroidery, special paint jobs, carpets and mats, custom dashes, wheel covers in a variety of finishes, chrome steering column covers and many other items that let you make your car your own.

How's the Weather?

If you live at the beach or in a hot climate, chill out with our selection of fans, sun shades and cooling systems.

Want to avoid the cold and rain? Turn up the temperature with optional heating systems and enclosures. You can even select the enclosure material, color, and pattern that fits your style or add logos, monograms or other artwork.

How About Performance and Ease of Use?

Be careful when purchasing optional electric components. Many after-market electrical components pull power from a single battery, weakening battery pack life. But our light kits and other electrical options are designed to pull pack voltage via a DC-to-DC converter that reduces it to 12 volts. So no single battery is used to operate an accessory.

Other accessories make our vehicles easier to maintain. Take our Single-Point Battery Watering System. It lets you plug into a single connection and fill all batteries at once, without taking the caps off each. The system saves time and prevents accidents involving battery acid and hot surfaces.

Play it Safe

Make sure all accessories are designed to fit Club Car vehicles, are properly installed by a trained technician and are used in the manner for which they are intended.
